

Road Map to Trailhead

Round Butte Trail

Umatilla National Forest - Pomeroy District

From Hwy 12 in the town of Dayton, WA, turn south on 4th Street, then drive 23.2 miles up the North Fork Touchet River canyon, past the Bluewood Ski Area, to a road junction. This road is paved to the ski area and becomes Road 64 at the Forest boundary.

NOTE: The 7.5 miles of Road 64 past the road junction are narrow, rocky and deeply rutted in spots — so passable by high-clearance vehicles only, when dry. Expect this drive to take over an hour.

Also, the final 200 yards of Road 450 down into Indian Camp is deeply rutted as well, so one may wish to park in a turnout along Road 450 and walk the final 0.1 miles to the trailhead.
